and flood control with special reference to Garhwal-Kumaon regions. J. Himalayan Studies and Reg. Dev., 4.

Emphasising the need of establishing an effective vegetational cover of suitable grasses, forest and fruit species on slopy lands, unsuitable for agriculture, in Garhwal and Kumaon regions of the Himalayas, the paper describes various measures for grassland improvement and recommends suitable grass and tree species according to different elevations. The paper also deals with the action programme comprising people's participation, grazing management, silvi-pastoral management, forage conservation, etc.
