The article gives an account of achievements made with particular reference to soil conservation structures, increase in ground water and irrigation efficiency, increase in crop yields and horticultural development in a watershed management based ORP executed by CSWCRTI, Dehradun at Bajar-Ganiyar and Siha villages in Aravali foothills in Haryana.