

1169. Mittal, S.P. 1991. Water resources development and management. Rural Technology Journ., March issue:11-12.

Briefly deals with present status of water resources in the country and describes how inefficient management leads to drought in some areas and floods in the other. An experimental study pertaining to a Shiwalik foothill village, Sukhomajri has been cited as a spectacular example of successful water resource development. It also elaborates a strategy for proper management of soil and water resources.