

- 1217. Arya, S.L. and Madhukar, R.M. 1988. Impact of watershed management on the role of farm women in Agriculture in Shiwalik foothills. Internl. Conference on "Appropriate Agricultural Technologies for Farm Women", New Delhi, 30th Nov. to 4th Dec., 1988: 65.

In the paper, an attempt has been made to study the impact of watershed management programme on the role of farm women in the agricultural economy of Shiwalik foothill villages. The analysis is based on data pertaining to 57 farm families from the villages, namely, Sukhomajri (adopted) and Moginand (non-adopted). The study revealed that the actual participation of farm women in agriculture was more in Sukhomajri as compared with Moginand.