

- 1275. Mishra, P.R., Dayal, R. and Bhola, S.N. 1967. Case study in watershed management. Indian For., 93(6):411-412.

Highlights the importance of case studies in watershed research methodology for a clear understanding of the complexities of various factors and processes, working simultaneously and affecting movement of soil and water. Its advantages over statistical methods are also discussed.