

1280. Singh, Gurmel. 1990. Status of integrated watershed management research and Transfer of Technology for higher biomass production. Proc. National

Seminar on Conservation of Land & Water Resources for Food & Environmental Security, New Delhi.

The paper highlights the role of watershed management projects, formulated and implemented by the CSWCRTI, Dehradun and its Research Centres throughout the country in different agro-climatic regions. The experience gained by the Institute in this regard can serve as a model for all concerned to emulate. The paper suggests that watershed management concept deserves to be taken up in a much larger scale than at present.