
The paper discusses the status of ecology and environmental studies in India, the watershed concept and courses for degree classes on watershed management involving soil and water conservation.